ERRATA

The number given in Appendix A for total unauthorized appropriations for programs last authorized by P.L. 102-534 (Reauthorization of Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act Programs) incorrectly included some portions of the Justice Department's State and Local Law Enforcement Assistance account that remain authorized through 2000 pursuant to P.L. 103-322, the Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1994. The correct entry is $1,842,750,000.

This error is also reflected in the appropriation amounts in Tables 1 and 2, which show 1999 appropriations with expired authorizations for programs under the jurisdiction of the House and Senate Committees on the Judiciary. The amount in Table 1 (House Judiciary) should be $14,089,092,000; the amount in Table 2 (Senate Judiciary) should be $14,115,291,000. The correct total for those tables is $100,931,786,000. To reflect the correct total, the first sentence in the last paragraph on page 3 should read: "The Congress appropriated almost $101 billion for fiscal year 1999"

This electronic version contains corrected text and tables.

PREFACE

This report by the Congressional Budget Office (CBO) satisfies the requirements of section 221(b) of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985. The purpose of the report is to help the Congress adopt authorizing legislation that should be in place before it considers the 13 regular appropriation bills for fiscal year 2000 (which begins October 1, 1999).

Ellen Hays of CBO's Special Studies Division prepared this report under the supervision of Arlene Holen. The author gratefully acknowledges the assistance of analysts in CBO's Budget Analysis Division and the budget offices of various agencies, as well as numerous committee staff members.

Liz Williams edited the report, Chris Spoor proofread it, and L. Rae Roy prepared it for publication. Laurie Brown prepared the electronic versions for CBO's World Wide Web site (<http://www.cbo.gov>).

Questions about the contents should be directed to Ellen Hays.

OVERVIEW

The Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985 requires the Congressional Budget Office (CBO) to report to the Congress each year on unauthorized appropriations and expiring authorizations. Section 221(b) of that act added the following requirement to section 202(e)(3) of the Congressional Budget and Impoundment Control Act of 1974, as amended:

On or before January 15 of each year, the Director, after consultation with the appropriate committees of the House and the Senate, shall submit to the Congress a report listing (A) all programs and activities funded during the fiscal year ending September 30 of that calendar year for which authorizations for appropriations have not been enacted for that fiscal year, and (B) all programs and activities for which no authorizations for appropriations have been enacted for the fiscal year beginning October 1 of that calendar year.

The conference report on the Deficit Control Act states that the purpose of the requirement is "to help Congress use the early months of the year to adopt authorizing legislation that must be in place before the thirteen regular appropriation bills can be considered."

Authorization laws have two basic purposes. They establish, continue, or modify federal programs, and they are a prerequisite under House and Senate rules (and sometimes under statute) for the Congress to appropriate budget authority for programs.

Some authorization laws provide spending directly. In fact, well over half of federal spending now goes to programs for which the authorizing legislation creates budget authority. Such spending is referred to as direct, or mandatory, spending. It includes funding for most major entitlement programs. (Some entitlements are funded in annual appropriation acts, but the amounts provided are controlled by the authorization law that established the entitlement.) The authorization laws that provide direct spending are typically permanent, but some major direct spending programs, such as the Food Stamp program, require periodic renewal.

Discretionary spending, which is provided in the 13 appropriation acts, now makes up only about one-third of all federal expenditures. For discretionary spending, the role of the authorizing committees is to enact legislation that serves as the basis for operating a program and that provides guidance to the Appropriations Committees on the appropriate level of program funding. That guidance typically is expressed as an authorization of appropriations. Such authorizations are provided either as specific dollar amounts (definite authorizations) or as "such sums as are necessary" (indefinite authorizations).

In addition, authorizations may be permanent and remain in effect until changed by the Congress, or they may cover only specific fiscal years. Authorizations that are limited in duration may be annual (pertaining to one fiscal year) or multiyear (pertaining to two, five, or any number of specific fiscal years). When such an authorization expires, the Congress may choose to extend the life of a program by passing legislation commonly referred to as a reauthorization. Unless the underlying law expressly prohibits it, the Congress can also extend a program simply by providing new appropriations. Appropriations made available for a program after its authorization has expired are considered "unauthorized appropriations."

Long-standing rules of the House allow a point of order to be raised against an unauthorized appropriation. During initial consideration of a bill in the House (which by precedent originates appropriation bills), unauthorized appropriations are sometimes dropped from the bill. However, the House Committee on Rules typically grants waivers for unauthorized appropriations that are contained in a conference agreement. (The Senate has a more limited prohibition against considering unauthorized appropriations.)

Both House and Senate rules require that when the Committees on Appropriations report a bill, they list in their respective committee reports any programs funded in the bill that lack an authorization. The information in the committee reports, however, differs somewhat from the information shown in this report. This report covers programs that at one time had an explicit authorization that either has expired or will expire. Unlike the lists shown in the Appropriations Committee reports, this report does not include programs for which the Congress has never provided authorizations of appropriations. For example, some Treasury Department programs have never received explicit authorizations of appropriations. They receive appropriations nonetheless because the authority to obligate and spend funds is considered "organic"—inherent in the underlying legislation or executive action that originally empowered the Treasury to perform particular functions.

As mentioned above, many laws establish programs with authorizations of discretionary appropriations that do not expire. Both the Appropriations Committee reports and this CBO report exclude programs with that type of authorization because its effect is permanent.

The substance of this report consists of two appendixes. Appendix A lists unauthorized appropriations—programs that have received an appropriation for fiscal year 1999 although their authorization has expired. Appendix B lists programs whose authorization will expire at the end of the fiscal year. For all appropriated programs that at one time had an explicit authorization that has expired or will expire, the appendixes show the number and name of the public law containing the last authorization, the last year the authorization was in effect, and the amount authorized in that year. If the authorization provided for "such sums as are necessary," the report shows the amount authorized as "indefinite."

This information is drawn from CBO's Legislative Classification System, a database reflecting all public laws enacted that contain temporary authorizations of appropriations—up to and including all laws enacted during the second session of the 105th Congress.

PROGRAMS FUNDED IN FISCAL YEAR 1999 WITH EXPIRED AUTHORIZATIONS OF APPROPRIATIONS

Appendix A lists programs and activities that have received a fiscal year 1999 appropriation even though their authorization has expired. If the applicable fiscal year 1999 appropriation act (or its legislative history) provides an explicit funding level for the program, that amount is shown under "Unauthorized 1999 Appropriation." If no explicit amount is provided (as when a small program is funded at an unidentified level in a large appropriation account), CBO contacts the agency's budget office to determine whether the program is still being funded and, if so, the amount allocated for it. If the allocated amount cannot be determined, the appendix notes that a specific dollar amount of unauthorized 1999 appropriations is not available.

The Congress appropriated almost $101 billion for fiscal year 1999 for programs and activities with expired authorizations (see Tables 1 and 2). The largest amount is for veterans' medical care ($17.3 billion), which was authorized up through the end of 1998. The $13.7 billion provided for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration was last authorized for 1993 by Public Law 102-588. Many housing and community development programs of the Department of Housing and Urban Development were reauthorized in P.L. 105-276. Those programs not reauthorized were last authorized for 1994; in 1999, they are funded at just under $8.8 billion.

Funding for many foreign aid programs was last authorized in 1987 by the International Security and Development Cooperation Act of 1985 (P.L. 99-83) and totals just over $7.4 billion in 1999. Much of the appropriation provided for the Department of Justice in 1999 ($11.8 billion) is considered unauthorized despite a general provision in the applicable appropriation act that extends the Department of Justice Appropriation Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1980 for another fiscal year. Justice funding is also provided for many programs that are separately authorized, such as those in the Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1994 and the Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act of 1996, among others.

Other programs funded in 1999 despite expired authorizations include Federal Aviation Administration operations and facilities improvement (last authorized for 1998 in P.L. 104-264); many programs of the National Institutes of Health (last authorized for 1996); and programs funded through the Alcohol, Drug Abuse and Mental Health Administration Reorganization Act of 1992 (P.L. 102-321), last authorized for 1994. Finally, $4.4 billion is provided for Department of Energy programs that were last authorized in 1984.

AUTHORIZATIONS OF APPROPRIATIONS EXPIRING ON OR BEFORE SEPTEMBER 30, 1999

Appendix B lists programs and activities whose authorizations will expire on or before September 30, 1999. Unlike Appendix A, the list indicates (by public law) the amounts authorized to be appropriated in 1999 for expiring programs and activities, rather than the amounts actually appropriated in 1999.

Well over $273 billion worth of authorizations—under the jurisdiction of 15 House committees and 14 Senate committees—will expire at the end of this fiscal year (see Tables 3 and 4). Typically, authorizing committees attempt to reauthorize programs before they are set to expire.

Several programs have authorizations of appropriations set to expire before the end of fiscal year 1999. The Federal Aviation Administration's Airport Improvement and Aviation Insurance programs expire on March 31, 1999. Two components of Trade Adjustment Assistance—assistance for workers and adjustment assistance for firms—expire on June 30, 1999. Both of those part-year authorization extensions are contained in P.L. 105-277.

Some programs were reauthorized during the second session of the 105th Congress—but only through the end of 1999. The largest such authorization is the annual portion of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1999, which includes the Maritime Administration and atomic energy defense activities.

Another annual authorization set to expire is the Intelligence Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1999. The Securities and Exchange Commission was reauthorized in P.L. 105-353 and the Patent and Trademark Office in P.L. 105-358 but only until the end of fiscal year 1999. Similarly, the Coast Guard's reauthorization (P.L. 105-383) and activities of the National Flood Insurance program (P.L. 105-276) both expire at the end of 1999. Finally, the Omnibus Consolidated and Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Act for 1999 (P.L. 105-277) provided reauthorizations of State Department and U.S. Information Agency programs through the end of 1999 as part of a reorganization of the two agencies.

Other programs with authorizations of longer than one year are set to expire. Virtually all of the programs authorized in P.L. 103-382—Improving America's Schools Act of 1994—expire at the end of 1999. The act provides indefinite authorizations for Impact Aid and most other federal programs affecting elementary and secondary education. (The General Education Provisions Act provides for an automatic one-year extension of all Department of Education programs, as noted in the appendixes.) Other programs set to expire on September 30, 1999, include the Federal Aviation Administration's research, engineering, and development account; much of the Marine Mammal Protection Act; and the National Transportation Safety Board.
